Dear Parent/Carer,

RE: Looking After Children of Keyworkers

As you will be aware, the Government is asking schools to continue to look after the children of parents/carers who are keyworkers, but only where this is absolutely necessary i.e. you have no other reasonable childcare alternative that would enable you to continue working.

In order help us to make the arrangements for these children, it is very important to have accurate information about the numbers involved.

If you are keyworker who according to the Government list (attached) and needs child to attend school, please confirm this by clicking the following link and completing the online form.

<https://forms.gle/L4txPTQQssZbZd4z5>.

If you experience problems with the online form, please email the school office at office@cavendish.hounslow.sch.uk with details of your name, the names of your children and a preferred email address.

Please understand that:

- You may be asked to provide proof of your occupation
- At this point, we are uncertain as to whether the provision to look after the children of keyworkers will be situated at Cavendish or neighbouring school. We will provide confirmation and further information as soon as a decision has been made.

Thank you for your cooperation and continued support,

Yours sincerely,

A. Coleman

Keyworker List – Official List

Health and social care

This includes but is not limited to doctors, nurses, midwives, paramedics, social workers, care workers, and other frontline health and social care staff including volunteers; the support and specialist staff required to maintain the UK's health and social care sector; those working as part of the health and social care supply chain, including producers and distributors of medicines and medical and personal protective equipment.

Education and childcare

This includes nursery and teaching staff, social workers and those specialist education professionals who must remain active during the COVID-19 response to deliver this approach.

Key public services

This includes those essential to the running of the justice system, religious staff, charities and workers delivering key frontline services, those responsible for the management of the deceased, and journalists and broadcasters who are providing public service broadcasting.

Local and national government

This only includes those administrative occupations essential to the effective delivery of the COVID-19 response or delivering essential public services such as the payment of benefits, including in government agencies and arms length bodies.

Food and other necessary goods

This includes those involved in food production, processing, distribution, sale and delivery as well as those essential to the provision of other key goods (for example hygienic and veterinary medicines).

Public safety and national security

This includes police and support staff, Ministry of Defence civilians, contractor and armed forces personnel (those critical to the delivery of key defence and national security outputs and essential to the response to the COVID-19 pandemic), fire and rescue service employees (including support staff), National Crime Agency staff, those maintaining border security, prison and probation staff and other national security roles, including those overseas.

Transport

This includes those who will keep the air, water, road and rail passenger and freight transport modes operating during the COVID-19 response, including those working on transport systems through which supply chains pass.

Utilities, communication and financial services

This includes staff needed for essential financial services provision (including but not limited to workers in banks, building societies and financial market infrastructure), the oil, gas, electricity and water sectors (including sewerage), information technology and data infrastructure sector and primary industry supplies to continue during the COVID-19 response, as well as key staff working in the civil nuclear, chemicals, telecommunications (including but not limited to network operations, field engineering, call centre staff, IT and data infrastructure, 999 and 111 critical services), postal services and delivery, payments providers and waste disposal sectors.

If workers think they fall within the critical categories above they should confirm with their employer that, based on their business continuity arrangements, their specific role is necessary for the continuation of this essential public service.
